Hanover Principles:

1. Development Sensitivity: The Greater Hanover Region's identity is still that of a small town and rural atmosphere. Future development that is sensitive to this unique condition will be essential if the area's identity is to be retained.
2. Human Services: The Greater Hanover Region is fortunate to have a large number of agencies and organizations devoted to providing health and human services. The health and welfare of the citizenry is a primary concern for an expanding population.
3. Scenic Resources: The Greater Hanover Region is fortunate to have many scenic resources - these must not be taken for granted but instead, must be protected.
4. Regional Cooperation: The Greater Hanover Region is fortunate to have cooperation among its municipalities. This is essential in sharing resources and avoiding duplication of efforts.
